

The Ask

(the key things you ask at the start and again at the end of your visit)

Act Now On Mental Illness

Commit to implementing the report of the National Mental Health Commission

The report was delivered to the Government in December 2014, after more than a year of consultation across Australia. It addresses all the issues that really matter, and gives Australia a ten-year plan that seems about right to us. Please commit to begin implementation, with leadership nationally from all parties if possible.

By all means continue to review, refer, examine, consult and cost the recommendations—but pay respect to the thousands of people who have contributed to this report, and commit to begin implementation.